No Fire at Milton Today.

An alarming report circulated here this morning to the effect the town of Milton was on fire and that help had been called from other places. A telephone inquiry made of the Milton Eagle by the East Oregonian brought the news that no fire has occurred there nor at Freewater today. A fire sale is being held to dispose of goods damaged in a blaze some weeks ago.

Art Jordan Doing His Share.

E. P. Averill received an interesting letter yesterday from "Art" Jordan, Pendleton high school graduate and O. A. C. student, who is now in France with company E, the 13th engineers. "Art" has been across about a month, and states that the engineers work is not all banner waving, but that when a fellow feels that he is doing what he wants to do, and can see progress before his eyes, the blisters are not so bad. He says that he is hardened now and feeling O. K.

Former Pendleton Lad Dies.

Word was received this morning by Mrs. G. L. La Dow of the death in Los Angeles, June 2, of the nine-year-old son of Mrs. C. D. Adams, formerly of Pendleton. Death was caused suddenly by appendicitis. The lad was the only child of Mrs. Adams who is the widow of C. D. Adams who died a year ago. The family left Pendleton eight years ago for Idaho and have resided in Los Angeles during the past two years. Mr. Adams while here, was associated in business with W. J. Furnish. Mrs. Adams was recently a guest of Mrs. La Dow.

Boys of 21 Can Enlist in Navy.

Recruiting officer Schwartz of the local navy recruiting bureau has just received the following telegram from the Portland office, which he takes to mean that boys of 21, who have just registered for the draft, will be accepted for enlistment in the navy: "The provost marshall general has just informed this bureau that non-registrants may enlist in the navy on securing the usual certificate from their local boards, inasmuch as new regulations have not been classified, they are not within the current quota until classification and there is no reason why such certificates should not be secured upon request."

Elks' Flag Day Exercises.

June 12 is Flag Day and it is the custom of Elks' lodges everywhere in the United States to observe the day with exercises appropriate to the day. The observance of the day in Pendleton this year will be in combination with the Commercial association Friday evening when the two organizations will entertain the 11 young men leaving next morning for the draft for technical training, the names of whom were announced in yesterday's East Oregonian. A luncheon will be given at 6 o'clock in honor of the young men and afterward a program of speeches suitable for the time will be given in the lodge room.

Six Laborers Called.

A new call has been received by the local draft board from the government in which the quota from this county is six men. They are classified as laborers and are required to be physically qualified for special or limited service only. The men are to be entrained for Vancouver barracks June 12. The order to the board says that the men are to be entrained for the military service.
